

CONTAINER HAVING A DEPRESSIBLE MEMBER USED FOR EJECTING CONTENTS

ABSTRACT

5

A container includes a metallic hollow outer body, a transparent plate, a plastic inner containing body, and a depressible ejection assembly for ejecting contents of the inner containing body with; the outer body has an upper opening, and several through holes thereon, which are formed in such a manner that patterns, and characters are presented; a cover, which has a passage thereon, is joined to the upper end of the outer body; the transparent plate has bumps thereon, and is positioned next to an inward side of the outer body with the bumps being closely fitted in the through holes respectively; the plastic inner body is held in the metallic outer body; the inner containing body has an outlet portion on a top thereof; the depressible ejection assembly is positioned above the cover of the outer body, and connected to the outlet portion of the inner containing body.

20